About Myself

- I would like to contribute and grow in media and production industry through writing, ideating and producing content for TV, films and web.
- I am a story teller and believe the genesis of any valuable audio/ visual production is thoughtful writing. For me, the most connecting stories come from our surroundings and therefore being a good observer is of paramount importance for effective story telling
- After doing 4 years of meaningful theatre in Delhi, the journey of a story from a paper to stage/ screen made me inquisitive to learn about the art of film making. The technical Know how I learnt in mass communication has also made me capable to take content from paper to screen
- I love to engage in in-depth primary and secondary research to strengthen my ideas and have the ability to read & write for hours at a stretch

- The art of filmmaking is a collaborative art. I strongly believe in working together with my team to produce a great product .Feedback has been important for me as it not only helps me improve as a writer and content producer but also opens the horizons for my creativity
